

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

This is a neurostimulator that is configured to treat epilepsy and other neurological disorders using certain stimulation strategies, particularly changing various pulse parameters, during the imposition of a burst of those pulses. The invention includes 5 the processes embodying those stimulation strategies.